

Heinrich Böll Foundation and European Council of Foreign Relations (ECFR)

have the pleasure to invite you for the public debate

Russia's Crisis:

How Conservative Turn and Economic Malaise Translate into Foreign Policy

with

Maria Lipman, Visiting Fellow, European Council on Foreign Relations

Jadwiga Rogoza, Senior Fellow, Centre for Eastern Studies (OSW)

Jens Siegert, Head of the Moscow Office, Heinrich Böll Foundation

on January, 15th at 11.30-13.30am in the Sofitel Warsaw Victoria Hotel

(Sala Królewska, 1st Floor), Królewska 11 street, Warsaw

The exacerbating economic crisis in Russia has deepened concerns about the country's unpredictability which were nurtured by its aggression against Ukraine and domestic political developments including a conservative and nationalistic backlash in the recent years. The event will provide an opportunity to discuss the most recent developments in Russia and how they translate into foreign policy with experts offering first-hand knowledge about the country.

We would like to kindly ask you to confirm your participation until January 12 via registration form.

Debate will be held in English only.